Quebec provincial police are investigating the death of a 57-year-old man who was killed in his home in Val-des-Monts.

The body of Richard Blanchet was discovered by his family at about 1 p.m. Saturday, police said.

The family called the MRC des Collines police department, which in turn contacted the Quebec provincial police.

"We do not have any arrests yet. The investigation is still ongoing," said spokesman Sgt. Claude Denis.

Blanchet's house is on Highway 307 north of Cantley, about 45 minutes north of Ottawa.

Police tape surrounded the house and a small tractor parked outside Sunday as police investigated the crime scene.

Police would not say if they had determined how Blanchet was killed. His body will be sent to Montreal for an autopsy this

"We will give these details to the courts," he said.

Fans Trek to Comiccon

Expensive keepsakes.
Fans empty their wallets for autographs from favourite stars

JOE LOFARO
joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

Thousands of die-hard comic-book fans and superhero lovers faced long, winding lineups and pricey autographs at Ottawa Comiccon over the weekend, but for some, it was worth it.

Star Trek icon William Shatner only appeared Saturday and charged fans $75 for either an autograph or a photo, while other special guests charged $10 to $40 on both days.

Trekkie Amber Musty saw Shatner speak at the guest panel, but didn't want to pay for his autograph.

"That was a little too much," said Musty. "It was $30 to see Brent (Spiner), so that's more in my price range."

She waited an hour on Sunday to get an autograph from Spiner, who played Data on Star Trek: The Next Generation.

"Totally worth it. I've loved him since I was a kid," she said,

She said the wait to get inside the building lasted an hour and a half on opening day, which attracted 12,000 people, according to Ottawa Comiccon. Organizers estimated about the same number of people attended Sunday.

The younger crowd didn't seem to mind the lineups. Zenon Hasper, 11, waited Sunday to get an autograph from Lou Ferrigno, who played Marvel's the Incredible Hulk.

"I think it's busy and cool," said Hasper, moments after chatting with Ferrigno and buying a signed Hulk comic book for $30. "It's pretty awesome."

Thousands of baseball fans living in hope

A group of baseball-boosting businessmen say more than 2,000 Jays fans in Ottawa have put their money where their mouths are to show support for bringing pro baseball back to the city.

The Champions for Ottawa Baseball group headed by David Gourlay held a ticket-deposit drive, asking fans to pay a refundable sum towards a season ticket in order to convince the powers that be in minor-league baseball that Ottawa is ready to support a team — hopefully one affiliated with the Blue Jays.

"This is about having a broad cross-section of our community stand up and say we're ready to support professional baseball," he said.

Gourlay said on Sunday morning more than 2,000 deposits had been made and he was "hopeful" the campaign would reach his goal of 2,500 by the cutoff at midnight, but the final results will not be made public until Tuesday.

"That's as close as I can come to saying it without scooping myself," Gourlay said.

Beacon Sports Capital Partners represents a double-A eastern-league team and is in negotiations with the city and league to bring that team to Ottawa, but the deal has not been confirmed. JESSICA SMITH/METRO

Jose Canseco

- Former Jays slugger Jose Canseco lost a home-run derby against local father Evan Malamud, whose five-year-old son Jaedyn has autism, on Saturday.
- The derby at Ottawa Stadium raised money for CHEO's autism program.
- Malamud won the derby — with the help of a shorter fence to smack balls over — but Canseco's all-star team won the game.

Prisoners. Israel agrees to proposal to end mass hunger strike: Egypt

An Egyptian official says Israel has agreed to a proposal that would end a mass hunger strike by Palestinians in Israeli jails.

The official says the Egyptian-drafted proposal still needs to be approved by the prisoners.

Some 1,600 Palestinians held in Israeli jails are striking, most for a month, but two men have refused food for more than 70 days.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the issue, said Sunday that under the deal Israel will move prisoners currently in solitary confinement to regular cells.

Israel also will soften its "administrative detention" policy, under which prisoners deemed a security risk can be held without charges.

Israeli officials would not comment.

For the hundreds of Palestinian families who have a relative in Israeli detention, a photograph is the only real contact with their loved ones.

In homes, the images are usually decked in elaborate frames alongside the portraits of dead ancestors, marking the conspicuous absence of the prisoners.

Ex-Taliban official murdered in Kabul

Afghanistan. Senator had reconciled with the government and was active in setting up talks with the insurgents

A gunman in a car killed a former high-ranking Taliban official working on reconciling Afghanistan's insurgency with the government.

The murder is a fresh blow to peace efforts even as Kabul announced it was gradually taking the lead from the U.S.-led coalition for providing security in much of the country.

A gunman with a silenced pistol killed Arsala Rahmani as he was sitting in his car at an intersection in one of the capital's most secure areas near Kabul University, police said.

Five killed in Sask. mid-air collision

Collision over Saskatchewan. Love of flying common thread among crash victims from Alberta

Two grieving Alberta families are struggling to comprehend how a private plane carrying their loved ones collided in mid-air with another Saturday.

A total of five people were killed in the incident, which took place near St. Brieux, Sask.

Investigators on scene Sunday said debris from the two aircraft, a Piper PA-28 and Lake Buccaneer, is spread over more than a kilometre.

Onboard the Piper were Nanton pilot Denny Loree, who was in his 50s and had more than 1,000 hours flight experience, Mossleigh father Eric Donovan and his 11-year-old son Wade, family members confirmed Sunday. The trio were en route to St. Brieux to pick up air-seeder materials for Eric's grain-

The deceased father leaves behind a wife and three children ages four to 10, Ian said.

"(Eric) was a great family man," he added. "He was always helping out in the community, helping out with his kids' baseball team."

Loree, meanwhile, had been flying for more than nine years, said son Mackenzie.

Economy

Canada has best two-month job gain in 30 years

Canada booked its best two-month employment gain in three decades with news Friday that the economy churned out 58,200 new jobs in April, the strongest signal in some time the economic recovery may be coming out of a mid-winter stall.

The report said that Canadians were able to find net new jobs in seven provinces across the country, many full-time and in the high-paying manufacturing, construction and resource industries.

Combined with March's 82,300 jobs number, the 140,500 total is the best two-month employment performance the country has seen since 1981. The only negative was that the unemployment rate edged up one-tenth of a point to 7.3 per cent. But Statistics Canada said that was because even more people went looking for work last month.

Facebook CEO Zuckerberg set for big birthday week

Tech titan. Social networking site expected to start selling stock publicly, trading on the Nasdaq Stock Market

Don't let the hoodie and sneakers fool you. Mark Zuckerberg is no wet-behind-the-ears CEO.

Facebook's chief executive turns 28 on Monday, setting in motion the social network's biggest week ever.

The company is expected to start selling stock to the public for the first time and begin trading on the Nasdaq market on Friday. The IPO could value Facebook at nearly $100 billion, making it worth more than such iconic companies as Disney, Ford and Kraft Foods.

At 28, Zuckerberg is exactly half the age of the average S&P 500 CEO, according to

Even so, the pressures of running a public company will undoubtedly take some getting used to.

Once Facebook begins selling stock, Zuckerberg will be expected to please a host of new stakeholders, including Wall Street investment firms, hedge funds and pension funds who will pressure him to keep the company growing.

Yahoo. CEO steps down amid resumé controversy

Yahoo says it is appointing Ross Levinsohn as interim CEO and Fred Amoroso as chairman of its board, effective immediately.

Yahoo says CEO Scott Thompson has left the company. Thompson has been under fire for more than a week over mentions in his resumé and company filings of a computer science degree he did not earn.

Amoroso was the board member leading the investigation into inaccuracies on Thompson's resumé. Levinsohn is Yahoo's head of global media.

Third Point, the hedge fund that owns a six per cent stake in Yahoo, has pushed for the changes.

Third Point CEO Dan Loeb and two of his nominees will join Yahoo's board. Four directors who had planned to retire at the annual meeting will step down immediately.

The Associated Press previously reported that Thompson told his colleagues that he didn't supply the incorrect information.

THIS IS YOUR BRAIN ON WHEELS

COMPASS
Steve Collins
ottawa@metronews.ca

I'm your correspondent on the curb and at the bus stop. I live on foot, don't own a car and hope I never have to.

But I spent last week car-sitting for a couple, driving him out to the airport, hanging onto the car and then meeting her flight a couple of days later. In between, I was, technically, a motorist.

These friends live in the Market, and since most everything they need is in walking distance, the vehicle mostly gathers guano in their condo parking lot. For a few days, it gathered guano at my place instead.

Still, the car was here, and so I drove my ever-deserving co-vivant to work in Gatineau.

She could ditch the vagaries of OC Transpo and STO for a couple of days, and we'd get to spend more time together in the morning.

I don't know how people do this every day and how it becomes normal routine. My commute was like swallowing daily anti-vitamins of annoyance, anxiety and frustration.

The observations of planning consultant Jeffrey Tumlín, who spoke to the city's special planning summit last month, kept coming back to me. The transit-oriented development guru listed the usual costs of car-dependant cities — emissions, traffic deaths, obesity — but also the toll exacted on our mental health.

"Driving is literally driving us crazy," was how he put it.

When you bump into somebody on the sidewalk, he explained, any number of social cues, a shrug of the shoulders, a quick apology, can be used to defuse the resulting tension. Not so in the amped-up world of the auto.

"When we're trapped inside the carapace of an automobile, though, all of the social signals that our brain is hard-wired to pay attention to, we can no longer receive or send and we get deeply frustrated," he said. "The reptilian portion of our brain, the amygdala, fires a flight-or-fight response that unleashes an array of chemicals unto our brain in order to deal with this problem."

Traffic is other people

Having car on the brain doesn't easily lend itself to seeing the other person's point of view.

The horn blast, the middle finger and the incredulous expression in the rear-view mirror are a poor substitute for real human communication, and our brains, subjected to these regular doses of crisis-juice, suffer what Tumlín characterized as "brain damage," making us more prone to anger, forgetful, mistrustful and unheeding of the consequences of our actions — a recipe for road rage.

I felt all this as I missed unfamiliar exits or got stuck in lanes that spit me where I didn't want to go. I felt it when another motorist pulled out from in front of a truck and immediately tried to cross two Queensway lanes, coming eye-poppingly close to landing in my glove compartment at 100 km/h.

After we averted carnage, the other idiot found self-expression in an extended horn solo, while your humble idiot broke into an equally pointless monologue on the other guy's skills, sanity and probable IQ.

I'm sure his experience of our near-miss and opinion of who almost just wiped us out was entirely different from mine. Traffic, after all, is other people, and we both had car on the brain, which doesn't easily lend itself to seeing the other person's point of view.

Instead, we both raged self-righteously along the highway in our metal-and-glass cages until the moment passed. Like momentarily disturbed sheep, drivers quickly forget these scares, then follow the mechanical herd to the next test of reflex and self-control.

Shamefully, I found myself channelling Rob Ford and cursing the cyclists "in my way," who were just trying to get to work without getting run down by gasoline-addled menaces like me. I even had the rare experience of envying people loitering so elegantly at bus stops.

It was great to see my friend at the airport Friday, and a profound relief to give up the keys and the stupid ugliness they can unlock in me and my poor amygdala.

Lynn Whitnall, trustee at the Wildlife Heritage Foundation

The two lionesses, about 5 years old, have been brought to the sanctuary in the hope that they will eventually breed with the resident male white lion. Because of their rarity — with "literally a handful of them left in South Africa," Whitnall tells Metro — preserving the white lion's bloodline is of paramount importance for wildlife conservationists.

Feline facts

- Trophy beasts. White lions are indigenous to South Africa. For many years, they were hunted for trophies; because of their rarity they have great value.
- They're not albinos. Their colour is caused by a recessive gene known as the chutya, or colour-inhibitor gene. They vary from blond through near-white, even red.
- Missing in the wild. There are roughly 300 white lions worldwide. However, there are no white lions left in the wild within their natural distribution range. Source: Global White Lion Protection Trust

Lopez and Diaz know what to expect — and it's not pretty

Pregnancy. What to Expect When You're Expecting stars dish on the births they've been privy to

Metro World News in Hollywood

What to Expect When You're Expecting — based on the best-selling pregnancy manual — is supposed to be about the highs and lows of having a child, but stars Jennifer Lopez and Cameron Diaz are more interested in the more horrific aspects.

"I had a C-section, but my sister gave birth six months later," Lopez remembers.

"We got pregnant around the same time, and she asked me to be in the delivery room with her. Because I had twins and it was recommended for me to have a C-section, there was a part of me that had thought, 'I didn't get to do it the way that everybody else does.'

Quoted

"I was in [the delivery room] and they were doing a C-section. There was just, like, blood everywhere, my sister's guts out on a platter — the inside, all of her intestines. It was crazy, dude."

Cameron Diaz on watching her sister have a C-section

"But when I saw my sister pushing that baby out, I was like, 'Maybe this was all right! Maybe this was a better out,'" remembers Lopez.

Diaz, who doesn't have any children of her own, explains that she got a crash course in the gruesome realities of having a baby at age 25 when her sister gave birth — and it may have shaded her own views on pregnancy.

"I was in [the delivery room] and they were doing a C-section," Diaz remembers. "There was just, like, blood everywhere, my sister's guts out on a platter — the inside, all of her intestines. It was crazy, dude."

As grisly as that may sound, though, Diaz insists the other option isn't that appealing, either. "But the vaginal delivery was crazy," she says. "No man should ever see it!"

Luckily, the film focuses on many other aspects of being pregnant. For Diaz, part of the fun of making What to Expect When You're Expecting was the prosthetic ... enhancements she got to wear — even if they didn't stand up to the elements.

"My pregnant breasts were really amazing," Diaz says with a laugh. "But then, when they put them on — because it was just the top part — in the Atlanta heat, I aged about 40 years by the end of two hours. They were literally hanging down to my hips! They were just drooping down, like they were just melting off my body, and it was really not attractive," she says.

A selfless act

Beyond birthing

So with all the pregnancy horror stories, might Lopez make like her character and consider adoption as an option for her next child? "It's funny because before the movie, I never really thought about adoption at all. I just always wanted to have my own baby," she says. "But after the film and during the making of the film when I held those two little Ethiopian twins, I fell in love instantly and it really occurred to me, I can see how somebody can do this, how it is so easy to embrace a child who has nothing. It's really a beautiful selfless act of love..."

Travolta accusations piling up

scene@metronews.ca

We tried to avoid the John Travolta rumours last week. Not because we didn't believe them — if you've seen 15 minutes of Wild Hogs, you could see him breaking rules on the massage table — but because they're gross, and we prefer to ease into the weekend with a Johnny Depp photo search.

But now, a total of three men have accused the actor of sexually harassing them during massage sessions, and a former employee of the swanky Peninsula Hotel has come forward claiming that Travolta was banned from the spa after a pattern of "inappropriate behaviour" with the staff, reports the New York Daily News.

Travolta's lawyers are, of course, denying all of the accusations, even providing time-stamped photos to TMZ in an effort to prove he was across the country when some of the incidents were alleged to have taken place.

On the one hand, we find it hard to believe that Travolta wouldn't quickly and quietly hand over the couple million these guys are asking for if he didn't have the perfect alibi.

On the other, we read through the lawsuits and you can't make up stuff this lonely and pathetic — trust us, we try every day over here.

Seacrest has marriage on his mind

Ryan Seacrest faked out American Idol audiences last week with what looked like a proposal to girlfriend Julianne Hough, instead giving her a note to pass on to her Rock of Ages co-star Tom Cruise.

But there was apparently some truth behind the gag, as Seacrest admits the pair have had marriage on their minds, according to Life & Style Weekly.

"It's something we talk about," he says. When asked if it's something they consider doing soon, he adds: "We talk about that, too."

'The rumours are not true'

Johnny Depp has been showing up to red carpets solo lately, but he claims that's not because things are over with longtime girlfriend Vanessa Paradis.

"The rumours are not true. They are absolutely not true," Depp tells the Sun. "No matter what I say about this, people believe the opposite. I can't say enough about it not being over. There's no truth anymore. It doesn't matter what I say to you right now, it doesn't make any difference."

Just what we needed on Monday — a nihilistic Captain Jack. This week just keeps getting darker.

Cancer patients' big online hit

A video featuring cancer-stricken children, their nurses, doctors and parents lip-synching and dancing to the popular Kelly Clarkson song Stronger has become an online sensation.

Clarkson, in her own video message to the children at Seattle Children's Hospital, called the video "amazing."

"It made my day. I know it's making everybody else's day online," Clarkson said in a message posted on her website. "I just can't wait to meet you."

The youngsters, many attached to IVs and holding signs that say "Stronger," "Fighter" and "Hope," dance along with parents and medical staff. The video is part of a creative arts program with cancer patients at the Seattle hospital.

What passed for 'hijinks' in Mitt Romney's teens might not be treated so differently today

Some parents say they would consider implanting their children with a tracking device. ISTOCK

To microchip your kids or not — that is the question

Technology. Some parents may agree to a GPS tracking device, but what about a body implant?

Recently, the ladies of The View started quite the discussion when they proposed implanting microchips in children — just as you would a pet.

Whoopi Goldberg first mentioned the idea while the ladies were discussing the infamous Etan Patz case that really introduced parents to the dangers of missing children (he disappeared in 1979).

The basic conclusion of the panel was that if it's good enough for your Shih Tzu, it should be good enough for your children. This way we'd be able to find young children if they were abducted.

But as some of mommyish.com's readers noted, that's not exactly the way that microchips work.

Terri explains: "Pet microchips don't work like GPS trackers; rather, they can be scanned if a lost pet is brought into a shelter or vet clinic, in order to access the owner's contact information."

But there were parents who believed that a GPS tracker for children wouldn't be a bad idea.

Amy brought up another famous missing persons case and the impact it made on her.

"When I was 13, Jennifer Odom disappeared. She only needed to go 300 feet to her house from the step off the school bus. It took a bit to find her body. Still unsolved. Even if it's a worst-case scenario of, 'I can get my pit-bull back,' I want the same service afforded to protecting my kids."

No matter what the crime rate may be, bad things happen and parents want to protect their children from harm.

One reader had a creative idea to help keep track of young children. Her suggestion: "I'd be interested in GPS jewelry for kids, something you can remove easily, but isn't so obvious that a kidnapper would recognize what it is. It would be great if only you had access to the GPS signal, say through your phone or something. I go into NYC a lot, which is challenging with two preschoolers. If one slips away at the giant Toys 'R' Us, a lot of panic attacks could be averted."

To that end, there actually are a variety of GPS trackers that are available for cautious parents looking to keep their young children safe. But none of these options would be cheap. Companies have designed GPS units that can be placed in jewelry, clothing or bookbags, so that your children could be monitored at any time. Once the kids get older, you could stop asking them to wear the GPS device.

With all this talk of tracking kids in case of the worst, I think it's important to note that parents should be educating their children about stranger danger and safe practices as well. GPS might locate your child after

Bring spring to your table with a chicken-veggie dish

This recipe serves four. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

To make the most of tender spring vegetables, it's important to use a gentle touch at the stove. This not only results in a more delicious dish, it's also usually much less work.

This braise of chicken legs and spring veggies is a great example. Though the chicken cooks for 30 minutes, the vegetables steam in the same pot for a few minutes.

1. In small bowl, mix butter and flour until completely smooth. Set aside.

2. In heavy-bottomed pot, heat oil over medium-high heat. Season the chicken legs with salt and pepper. Working in batches, cook legs until well-browned, about 5 minutes per side. Transfer to plate.

3. Add onions to pot and brown 8 mins. Add wine and scrape bottom of pan to loosen browned bits. Return legs to pan along with the stock and thyme. Bring to low simmer, then cover. Reduce heat to low and simmer until the chicken legs are tender, about 30 minutes.

Ingredients

- 1 tbsp unsalted butter, room temperature
- 2 tbsp all-purpose flour
- 1 tbsp canola oil
- 4 chicken legs, skin and excess fat removed
- Salt and black pepper
- 2 sweet onions, quartered
- 1/4 cup white wine
- 2 cups no-salt chicken stock
- 2 tsp dried thyme
- 1 bunch asparagus
- 1 bunch broccolini
- 1 tbsp cider vinegar

4. When the chicken cooked, place asparagus and broccolini over chicken and cover. Allow veggies to steam 5 mins. or until just tender and bright green.

5. Transfer legs and veg to platter. Increase heat to medium-high and whisk in the flour and butter mixture. Continue whisking until mix thickens, about 3 mins. Whisk in vinegar, then season with salt and pepper. Pour the sauce over the chicken and vegetables.

Solar power — rain or shine

Absolute black. New solar cells catch light from all angles

BEN KNIGHT
Metro World News

Solar cells are pretty much the ultimate in a clean, green-energy generation.

But traditional cells have their limitations. They only do their best work when the sun is out and shining directly on them. Morning and evening aren't ideal, and cloudy days are pretty much a write-off.

But an exciting new approach to the entire industry is leaping closer to the ultimate ideal: "absolute black."

These new solar cells catch light from all angles — efficiently enough to generate electricity even when the sun is obscured.

"You take a standard cell, and you etch little pores into it, like tiny little mountains," says Chuck Provini, president and CEO of Natcore Technology.

"What happens then is that, as the sun goes across the sky, you now have these little pores that capture the light and don't have as much reflect-off as a smooth cell."

This happens at a microscopic scale, but the new cells capture an astonishing 99.7 per cent of the available light.

"Because we're capturing light at all these different angles, what's happening is we're just getting more light over a greater period of time," Provini explains. "It reaches its high efficiency way early on in the day, and then keeps it much, much longer. You don't just have this blip in the middle of the day. You have this plateau that goes from morning until the sun goes down."

At a time when the rest of the industry is struggling to increase power output by fractions of percentage points, Natcore's cells promise to boost production by between three and ten per cent. There is still a lot of testing and development to complete, but the future is near — and very exciting.

Getting fit — one kid and one bit at a time

Pilot project. Making children earn their screen time — new online game uses kids' daily activity as its sole power source

Jurmaine Dowe detaches his digital pedometer and inserts it into the docking station, and it's not long before a flurry of colourful graphics pop up and saturate the computer screen.

Within moments, the 11-year-old will be on a globetrotting journey within a virtual world that will transport him to such varied locales as Blackfoot Crossing, the Empire State Building, Mount Everest, and the moon.

But before the Grade 5 student at Toronto's Blacksmith Public School can navigate through the digital domain, he first must rack up steps through physical activity to power his online play.

Jurmaine is among 250 kids across Canada taking part in a pilot project aimed at offering youngsters some added incentive to get moving.

Concerned Children's Advertisers has launched what is being billed as the first-ever online game to use kids' daily activity as its sole power source.

The project's aim is to determine whether gaming can be used as a motivator to change sedentary behaviour, and, in turn, increase physical activity levels among kids.

In addition to other communities within Ontario including Mississauga, Paris,

How it works

Participants must reach a minimum daily physical activity goal of 8,000 steps, and a built-in timer limits game play to 20 minutes a day.

Orillia and Rama, the pilot is also in place in Moncton, Regina and Whitehorse.

Children are outfitted with digital pedometers known as Fitbits that track and upload their daily steps to an online game called GOGOYU. When online, they create and customize their own avatars.

But for parents concerned about kids spending countless hours glued to screens, they needn't worry: the game has strict time limits, and offers ample educational value to its users.

As they navigate through the game, they can earn energy boosters known as "karats", learn nutritional information as well as facts about the different locales which are woven throughout the various challenges.

The pilot's project's first week involves students wearing the Fitbit daily without interaction with GOGOYU. An online survey is also conducted to assess their sports involvement and levels of activity, said CCA school liaison Susan Houston.

The students then have four weeks interacting with the game. During the project's final phase, youngsters wear the Fitbit for one more week to see if they are continuing to keep up with their steps.

Grade 5 student Shirley Tran, 10, shows off her Fitbit Wireless Personal Trainer at Blacksmith Public School in Toronto last Tuesday. NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

CCA president Bev Deeth said research they conducted with kids revealed that youngsters recognize the importance of leading a healthy, active life. However, that knowledge alone wasn't necessarily enough to spur them to take action or make a change.

The information was shared with ad agency Crispin Porter & Bogusky, which developed the idea of a game powered by real-life activity.

"With one in four kids in this country being overweight or obese, this is taking a very creative new direction approach to an issue that's very problematic," Deeth said. "We felt that we were reaching kids in more of a relevant and meaningful and motivating way."

Deeth said the game is designed to help kids get their 60 minutes of recommended moderate to vigorous physical activity a day.

According to the 2011 report card from Active Healthy Kids Canada, only nine per cent of boys and four per cent of girls are meeting those targets.

Soccer sessions at school for Jurmaine and fellow classmates Nathaniel Sinke and Shirley Tran, both 10, have helped in their efforts to ramp up their step counts.

"I was psyched because it was kind of fun hearing about the game, seeing my character and everything,

Getting children moving

Michelle Brownrigg, director of physical activity and equity at U of T, weighs in on the project.

- Screen time. "Everything that we can look at that can figure out how we can engage kids, engage families, that will put them into a situation of building physical activity into daily life is all a good contribution."

- Results. The project ends next month, and results will be reviewed by researchers at the University of Toronto.

Stepping up to the challenge

"I was psyched because it was kind of fun hearing about the game, seeing my character and everything, and seeing how many steps I could get a day... and trying to beat my highest step count."

Jurmaine Dowe, Grade 5 student at Toronto's Blacksmith Public School who is taking part in a pilot project that aims to get kids moving and seeing how many steps I could get a day... and trying to beat my highest step count," said Jurmaine.

Shirley has racked up as many as 21,000 steps in a day and does whatever she can to increase her pedometer clicks.

"When we're doing squats, I always add marches to it to get more steps."

But not all of the kids have been keen to participate. Andrew Wood, who teaches a split Grade 4/5 class at Blacksmith, admits a few of his students haven't worn the Fitbit at all.

"You're not going to get everybody. But the point is: 'How many can you get?'" he said.

NHL playoffs

"I am excited it's the Rangers. Anybody that coaches or plays wants to play your main rival in this type of situation. I don't think it gets any better than that."

Wait for West final finally over

The L.A. Kings and Phoenix Coyotes had plenty of time to recharge after quickly ousting the St. Louis Blues and Nashville Predators respectively in Round 2. Last night the clubs opened the West final and, if their six regular-season meetings were any indication, it should be very physical. # Heat top Pacers, but lose Bosh in process

LeBron James rises for a dunk in Miami on Sunday. MARC SEROTA/GETTY IMAGES

LeBron James got his trophy, and then he and Dwyane Wade made sure the Miami Heat got a win in Game 1. James scored 32 points and grabbed 15 rebounds in his first game as a three-time MVP, Wade finished with 29 and the Heat beat the Indiana Pacers 95-86 to open their second-round series on Sunday. Chris Bosh scored 13, but left late in the first half with a lower abdominal injury and did not return. The Heat said Bosh will have an MRI to determine the extent of the problem. While returning to the defensive end, Bosh started limping and grabbing at his midsec-

Blue Jays get the rough end of Diamond's gem

MLB. Canadian works 7 shutout innings in Twins' win over Toronto

Scott Diamond has been with the Minnesota Twins for less than a week, and he already has accounted for one-fifth of the team's wins. Diamond, from Guelph, Ont., pitched seven shutout innings, Brian Dozier hit his first career homer and the Minnesota Twins beat the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3 on Sunday. Ryan Doumit and Jamey Carroll added two hits apiece for the Twins, who became the last team in the majors to reach double-digit wins by splitting the four-game series. Matt Capps pitched a scoreless ninth for his seventh save in as many chances. Yunel Escobar and Eric Thames knocked in runs for Toronto, which closed its road trip at 5-5.

Diamond (2-0) has given the Twins the type of starting pitching that has been sorely lacking for most of the season. Minnesota starters entered the game with a collective 6.57 earned-run average, the worst in baseball. Called up from triple-A Rochester last Monday, he threw seven shutout innings Tuesday night against the Los Angeles Angels. Just as he did then, Diamond worked ahead in the count and primarily kept the ball down in the zone. He allowed five hits and struck out four without a walk.

"I was getting hit hard, but our defence came up big for me," he said. "I'm not a strike-out guy, so I just want them to keep hitting the ball in play and we were able to get some outs." Last year, Diamond was 1-5 in seven starts for the Twins. This year he's more relaxed, taking things simpler and is focusing on the batter rather than letting things get out of control. "This year it's more about getting back, getting wins, and helping this team out in whatever way I could," he said. Toronto starter Ricky

Hesjedal holds on to pink jersey

Cycling. First Canadian to lead the Giro D'Italia retains his lead despite tough day in the saddle

Canada's Ryder Hesjedal retained the overall leader's jersey at the Giro d'Italia on Sunday with an 11th-place finish in the eighth stage.

Hesjedal, who is from Victoria, is the first Canadian to ever lead the race.

Domenico Pozzovivo took the eighth stage thanks to a break just under seven kilometres from the finish of the gruelling 229-kilometre leg from Sulmona to Lago Laco to win in six hours six minutes five seconds.

The Colnago-CSF Inox rider was 23 seconds ahead of Movistar's Benat Intxausti.

"It's not possible, I can't believe it," Pozzovivo said. "I've been dreaming of this since last autumn. And it happened how I wanted it to, with a clear victory."

Joaquin Rodriguez led the peloton over the line 27 seconds after Pozzovivo to close the gap on Hesjedal to nine seconds in the overall standings.

"That was a tough day.

"The guys did a great job defending the jersey."

Canadian cyclist Ryder Hesjedal, after retaining the pink jersey of the overall race leader

Really happy to hang onto the jersey," said Hesjedal, who rides for Garmin-Barracuda. "The team was incredible again and really showed our strength in the hard beginning of the stage."

"I just had to follow my closest competitors on the final climb and I was able to do that. Mission accomplished."

Defending champion Michele Scarponi moved up into 12th, 54 seconds behind Hesjedal, while two-time winner Ivan Basso is in sixth, 40 seconds behind the Garmin-Barracuda cyclist.

As expected, the stage was decided on the ascent of the category 2 Colle Molella climb to the finish. The 9.9-kilometre climb has an average gradient of six per cent and includes several hairpin turns with gradients of between 10 per cent and 12 per cent.

Horoscope

- Aries | March 21 - April 20.
You may have to admit that you are out of your depth and that you are not going to reach the target you set yourself.
Taurus | April 21 - May 21.
Don't take risks or take anything for granted. Someone could be setting you up for a fall.
Gemini | May 22 - June 20.
Don't worry too much if you can't seem to work out what's going on today – it will all become clear as the week progresses.
Cancer | June 21 - July 22. Do not allow yourself to get drawn into other people's disputes.
Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. You

- will be in a generous mood today. If someone is down on their luck you won't have the heart to turn them away.
Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.
Mars in your sign makes you assertive and ambitious, but don't try to do everything all in one go.
Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. It does not matter if you are in one of your gloom and doom moods today because by this time tomorrow you will be all smiles again.
Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Put any feelings of regret or remorse you may have behind you immediately.
Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec.

21. A minor success can be built into something more important but you've got to be patient.
Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20.
The message of the stars is that you have nothing to worry about – no, really, nothing at all. By all means take a few chances.
Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18.
You may be tempted to cut corners today but is that really such a smart idea?
Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.
Someone you work with is in an unreasonable mood and no doubt it annoys you a lot. But don't stoop to their level and be unreasonable in return because that means they will have won. SALLY BROMPTON
